LARS HUBER

CEO, HINES EUROPE

A MESSAGE FROM THE ULI EUROPE CHAIRMAN LARS HUBER, CEO, HINES EUROPE

Urban Land Institute (ULI) provides the unique opportunity to help create significant change across property and the built environment and address the often-seismic challenges we all face in the current environment.

Supported by its members, it is a non-profit education and research institute that forms the oldest and the largest network of multi-disciplinary real estate and land use experts in the world.

Its mission in Europe, and around the world, is to shape the future of the built environment for transformative impact in communities worldwide. Or, put more directly, ULI is where the future is built.

That is why it is a great honour for me personally to have been appointed ULI Europe Chairman: it is the opportunity to work with our committed members – leaders from diverse backgrounds, geographies and generations working across the built environment in the public and private sectors – to affect change.

This means addressing many major industry challenges, from curbing climate change, decarbonising real estate, to driving social impact, advancing diversity and inclusion, educating the next generation of diverse real estate leaders, and increasing housing attainability in our communities.

Such mission priorities require collaborative effort from our industry, and I cannot think of a better organisation than ULI to bring us together to successfully tackle the challenges and issues that matter.

Appropriately, the institute affords its members invaluable opportunities to connect, share ideas, solutions and best practice in real estate and the built environment, as we all collectively strive to make long-lasting positive change.

ULI in Europe offers exemplary professional development and learning opportunities, including through the Young Leaders and NEXT programmes, plus mentoring programmes, a calendar of dedicated conferences and events, an annual schedule of European and Global research reports, and more.

In other words, ULI offers a chance to get involved, build long lasting relationships, and learn.

I'd encourage you to join ULI to help shape the future of the built environment and hope to see you soon at one of ULI's events or other activities across Europe.
